

Word Based Art

Spotlight on: Jocelyn Saunders

About the Artist

Jocelyn Saunders has always loved art and attended 'Art Masterclass' at Wildern School. From this class she discovered her love for abstract art and was inspired by artists like Jackson Pollock and Monet.

"Abstract art brings me a huge sense of freedom and expression", Jocelyn says, "you can change it up, try new things, just see where the artwork takes you."

Jocelyn works in a variety of mediums, from oil pastels and acrylic paints, to watercolours. She has recently started experimenting with oil paints.

Over lockdown, Jocelyn used social media providers like 'TikTok', for inspiration and to learn new art techniques.

Lockdown was a difficult time, but encouragement from loved ones enabled Jocelyn to push herself to keep going with her work, and tried to be creative everyday.

So what's next for Jocelyn?

"I'm looking into new techniques to try, like pouring art, and melting crayons!"
